CREW DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTE

CDI

Sponsorship Partnership

Building Africa's live event production workforce through world-class training, mentorship, and real-world experience.

The Opportunity

> When a global artist performs in Accra, the lights, sound, and video walls are often operated by crews flown in from abroad. Local technicians—eager, capable, but untrained in international standards—watch from the wings. CDI exists to change that equation.

Africa's stages are ready to shine—but they need trained crews.

85%

of African live events rely on imported technical crews

$2B+

What CDI Does

A comprehensive ecosystem for technical production training

Learning Arm

School programs and hands-on training for local technicians in lighting, audio, video, and rigging. University partnerships across three continents.

Technical Advisory

On-site and virtual production management. Industry professionals mentoring and supporting local crews on real productions.

Production Arm

Direct production support during transition, phasing out as local teams become self-sufficient. Building capacity for world-class events.

Impact & Vision

Your investment creates a multiplier effect: each trained technician supports 5+ additional jobs, elevates production quality, and keeps revenue on the continent.
